

SETTLEMENTS
IN CIVIL COURT.

Next Week's List Has Thirty-Five Cases for Trial.

B. FRANK SMITH DAMAGE SUIT

Will Not Come to Trial Because the Defendant Has No Money—Some Connellsville Cases That Figure in the Trial List.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Feb. 11.—A glance at next week's trial list in which 35 cases were scheduled for the four-day session of the fourth week of the adjourned December Circuit Court and at the action taken in many of the suits so far predicts that the list will go down about the same as that of the past week.

Out of the eight cases set for Monday, one has been continued, judgment entered in another, one settled, a "non pros" entered in another. Four are left for trial and it is probable that one of these will be settled.

Of the 27 remaining cases, three have been continued, one non pros entered and two actions discontinued, leaving but 21, many of which will be continued.

Settlement proceedings were brought by John Matvey against John T. Macchia for the possession of a piece of ground in Perry township, fronting 229 feet on the road from Perryopolis to Connellsville. The property runs back 95 feet from the road, containing a little more than an acre and known as the "Hershey School" lot.

Another Connellsville case on Monday's list is that of Loretta Nicholson against Jacob and Mrs. Samuel Kneibursky, doing business as the Bazaar. An $11 suit of clothes purchased on February 1, 1910, by the plaintiff resulted in the action. It is set forth that when the clothes changed hands it was expressly agreed that if they did not fit, on being returned, the purchaser would receive her money back.

The suit is alleged to have been a night, but, by reason of the defendant's refusal to accept it or return the money, plaintiff was to recover only $5.00 owing to a debt of $1.10 on a book account at the bazaar.

Squire W. P. Clark, after listening to the evidence on June 17, 1910, rendered judgment in the plaintiff's favor. July 20th, Attorney F. E. Younkkin, for the defense, took an appeal. The King-Lincoln's claim the decision unjust as the clothes were kept from January 31 to March 11 and were entirely unmarketable when brought back.

They deny any debt towards the plaintiff and claim judgment for 23 cents on a book account. Attorney S. R. Goldsmith represents the defendant.

An alleged violated hop contract between A. Marcus & Sons of Chicago, Ill., and the Johnson Hreving Company of New Haven, will be threshed out in court next Monday.

On July 22, 1907, the defendant company bought 200 bushels of hops from the Chicago firm, who immediately placed their order for the same on that day. December 6th the brewer company canceled their order. In the meantime, hops had decreased in value considerably, so that when the plaintiff was able to dispose of his purchase he could only obtain 11 cents a pound, causing a loss of $150.01, the amount set for, with interest from December 10, 1909.

Misrepresentation will be the defense. It is claimed by the defendant that they purchased hops from A. Hatten, and though he was representing the plaintiff, he assumed the brewer's people that Marcus & Sons would have nothing to do with the transaction as he was permitted to sell his own hops. The defendant refused to have any dealings with the plaintiff company because of former unsatisfactory purchases.

Nevertheless, the hops were shipped through the Chicago people; hence the intent to accept the goods. At the hearing before Squire Daniel M. Blerer on July 2, 1910, judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff for $151.01. The defendant appealed.

A $101.01 grocery bill run up by John Krajnak at the grocery and meat store of Andy Baluch, North Gallatin avenue, Uniontown, will bring the purchaser into court on Monday to account for the non-payment of the account.

Krajnak and Baluch were formerly partners in the grocery business, conducting a store at Oliver No. 3. The partnership has never been dissolved and affairs were never adjusted. The defendant says he took the goods for his store pending equity proceedings to settle the dispute.

In a replication filed after Krajnak's affidavit of defense, it is stated that the civil case has nothing to do with the equity proceedings regarding the partnership, and the items of the account refer to transactions that occurred after what he claims was a dissolution of the partnership.

A LITTLE GIRL BURNED TO DEATH IN HOME.

Anna Margaret Evans Victim of Open Grate and Baby Sister Has Narrow Escape.

During the absence of her parents, Anna Margaret Evans, aged 4 years, 2 months and 6 days, daughter of H. D. and Anna Evans of Connellsville, was burned to death yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and her baby sister, aged two years, had a narrow escape from meeting with a similar fate.

Mrs. Evans, mother of the children, went out of the room and left the children in care of their father. For some reason he left the room, too, but before doing so he put a wash boiler before the open fire place to keep the children from danger. The supposition is that Anna Margaret climbed up on the boiler and her clothes ignited from the open grate. Charles Hart, an uncle of the children, came into the room shortly afterwards and found the body of the older child burned to a crisp. It is believed that she inhaled the fumes and died in a short time.

The smaller child was on the bed and had it not been for the timely arrival of Mr. Hart it too would have met the fearful death that the older child did. The bed clothing and furniture quickly extinguished the fire and the baby escaped injury. Mr. and Mrs. Evans are prostrated over the terrible death of their child.

Funeral services will be held from the family residence tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment in St. Joseph's cemetery.

COMMERCIAL CHAMBER
WOULD BE SHOWN.

Believes Railroads Asking Franchises Should Give Town Something.

VERBAL PROMISES NOT ASKED

Board of Directors Met This Morning and Burgess Evans Will Request Presence of High Officials to Consult With Council.

President D. F. Bush of the Western Maryland and one of the higher officials of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad will be requested to visit Connellsville next Tuesday and meet with Town Council before action is taken on the ordinance now pending granting a right of way through the borough on the West Side and providing for the vacation of certain streets and alleys.

The invitation will be extended by Burgess J. L. Evans. This step was decided upon at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce this morning. It is the idea of most of the Directors that Council should grant no concessions to the railroad companies without the assurance, in writing, that something will be given the town in return. The Directors are of opinion that verbal promises would be utterly worthless. The only thing the railroad has promised, the Directors say, is the vacation of a handsome depot, which will be of advantage only to the railroad in seeking passenger business. On the other hand it is estimated that the land value of the streets and alleys asked to be vacated is in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Burgess Evans, who is a member of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce is decidedly favorable towards securing a definite statement from the railroad as to what they will give the town in return. The Chamber of Commerce would prefer that the pledge in writing in order that the management, in some future time, should not be allowed to take the railroad away from Connellsville.

Four new patients are at the Cottage State hospital, Vincenzo Allegretti and Nicola Nicoletta, Italians employed by the Western Maryland Railroad Company at Indian Creek, are suffering from burns of the face and hands resulting from a premature explosion of dynamite. Mariusus Fruscher of Ohioville was operated on for a strangulated hernia last evening. The operation was a serious one and he was resting easy today at noon.

James Anderson, a B. & O. brakeman was admitted to the hospital yesterday afternoon for treatment of an injury to the head as the result of being hit by a piece of coal. He is delirious at times.

Mrs. U. D. Snyder III.
Mrs. U. D. Snyder of East Fourth street is seriously ill with an attack of apoplexy. Her condition is regarded serious by her friends.

ARTHUR A. ZINN IS KILLED IN CHICAGO.

Former Local Railroad Man Murdered in the Windy City.

FOUND DYING ON STREET

Mother is at Present a Resident of Connellsville Township and the Body Will Be Shipped Here for Interment Tomorrow.

In an unconscious condition, Arthur A. Zinn, a former Connellsville man, was found lying on a street in Chicago last Tuesday morning and the supposition is that he was waylaid and murdered. He was suffering from a fractured skull and died from his injuries in a Chicago hospital. Zinn came to Connellsville about four years ago from McKees Rocks where he was employed by the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Company. He worked for some time as a brakeman in the local B. & O. yards and during the summer of his stay in Connellsville he lived on a farm on the Narrows. Last summer he left Connellsville for Crystal Lake, Ill., where for several months he followed the occupation of a farmer. From Crystal Lake he went to Chicago, where he was employed in a freight house.

Zinn was a son of Mrs. Anna Goerdt who resides on the Steiner farm in Connellsville township. He was born at York, Pa., July 27, 1870.

News of his death was received here through a letter written by the Secretary of the Knights of Pythias Lodge at Chicago to Charles Russell, Secretary of the local Knights of Pythias lodge, of which the deceased was a member. He was also a member of the Junior Order United American Mechanics and at one time was a member of the local order of the Knights of Pythias. He was married and while in Connellsville he and his wife separated. After their separation he spent some time with his mother. His wife is supposed to be residing at Bradfield. Zinn was in good standing in the Knights of Pythias and highly esteemed by the lodge members.

The body is in the morgue at Chicago and will be shipped to Connellsville as soon as it is received from Chicago. A telegram was sent this morning by Secretary Charles Russell to ship the body to Connellsville. On its arrival here, which will be on Monday, the body will be removed to the funeral director J. J. Shins' undertaking rooms.

The fact that the silver ornaments on the coffin were stolen shows that robbery was the motive, and the tracing of the ornaments is the only line of operations pointed out by the facts in hand, said the officers.

PROPERTY OWNERS
ENTER A PROTEST.

Get Out Petition Against Proposed Closing of Streets and Alleys.

PUT MATTER UP TO COUNCIL

M. J. Rohm Declares His Slaughter House Would Be Crippled by Closing Graham and Leisnering Avenues, Other Kicks.

Property owners in Greenwood are well pleased that Council did not act with snap judgment on the ordinances presented by the Western Maryland railroad for the vacation of streets and alleys. The outlining of the plans of the railroad made it possible for the owners of land east of the railroad to see where they stood and take steps against an alleged injustice that would have been done to them.

Today petitions are being circulated protesting against the closing of the streets and alleys, particularly Graham and Leisnering avenues. These petitions will be presented to Council before final action on the ordinance is taken. It is expected that property owners will be on hand Tuesday when Council goes over the ground and will then show where they would be affected.

Mr. J. Rohm claims his business would be seriously affected by the closing of Graham and Leisnering avenues. Mr. Rohm has an extensive slaughtering establishment in Greenwood, east of the proposed railroad, and to close the streets would mean that his only outlet would be by the rather circuitous route by way of Market street, which is to be left open. Mr. Rohm has already secured at least 25 signatures to his petition and expects to get that many more.

There is also objection to the closing of the streets for the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie north of Main street. Frank Curtis, the green goods man, has 10 lots on Sixth and Seventh streets and claims that the closing of some of the alleys and streets proposed by the railroad would harm him to a great extent.

The residents along the east side of Eighth street are also objecting to the closing of the alley in the rear of their places. It is the understanding of those who have examined the plans, however, that the alley paralleling and lying between Seventh and Eighth streets is not to be closed. The closing of this alley would deprive these property owners of a rear outlet.

GOOD ROADS MEN ARE MEETING HERE.

District Convention Being Held in Rooms of Chamber of Commerce.

WILL LAST ALL AFTERNOON

Six Addresses to Be Delivered by Men Well Posted on Roads Question. Agents for Machinery and Material Right on the Job.

The district good roads convention is being held here this afternoon in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce. The attendance is large and much interest is being manifested in the work that is being accomplished along this line. Five speakers will have made addresses before the session closes some time around 5 o'clock. Borough Engineer James B. Hogg was unable to be present but his paper was read by Secretary J. Fred Kurtz. Secretary E. H. Rowe of the Uniontown Chamber of Commerce was one of the first of the out of town visitors to arrive. Mr. Rowe is taking a keen interest in county road building and it was largely due to his efforts that the Fayette county supervisors formed their organization. The meeting here today is under the auspices of that organization.

Assistant State Highway Commissioner C. E. Ensign was an early arrival. The meeting has attracted the representatives of road building machinery and material agents are in town today representing the Duquesne Manufacturing Company, the Kelly-Springfield Road Roller, the Trochus from Works, the Robinson Concrete and Stone Company, the Atlantic Refining Company, the Barber Asphalt Paving Company. These representatives report that the good roads conventions that have been held so far have resulted in developing trade in their line and several townships of this county have already invested in modern machinery.

Colored People
Plan Big School

The project has been formally inaugurated by the representatives of colored people of Fayette county to purchase the old soldiers' orphan school at Uniontown which includes all buildings and appurtenances, five acres of land, and 300 acres of land, with the object in view of making this a noted institution for the education of the young negroes of Western Pennsylvania.

Those who are interested in the project are: Rev. P. H. Thompson, A. P. McChure, Dr. J. T. Whitsonson, Prof. Henry Brown, John Johnson and others.

The legislature at the present session will be asked to make a reasonable appropriation, sufficient to get the institution on its feet and in working order.

The projected cost of the site will be $40,000 and is considered cheap at that. There are numerous buildings on the grounds for school purposes, an elegant farm residence for the principal, a large stone barn, boiler and pumping plant, reservoir and a large stone chapel.

SETTLEMENTS IN CIVIL COURT.

The two other cases are those against the Hocks Coal & Coke Company, James S. Bates and the Mopans. James S. Bates and the Mopans are the plaintiffs in one action, William M. Henderson bringing the other suit. Both cases grow out of the failure of coal from under property in Rossburg and Hocking townships which the plaintiffs claim possession of. Triple damages are asked, $31,250.00 in the first case.

The largest suit for personal damages ever instituted in Fayette county was scheduled for next Thursday, but since the trial list was announced the plaintiff has withdrawn the action. It is Frank Smith, plaintiff, and the defendant is the estate of the late Mrs. Smith, who died on grounds of insanity, was the defendant. The sister, Mrs. Louis Moyer, whose father and husband were shot by the crazed man, sought to recover $100,000; $50,000 for herself and $50,000 apiece for her children.

Since the claim was filed, representatives of Smith have succeeded in having what remained of his money and property paid over to them, by order of court, so that the defendant today is practically penniless.

The opinion suit of the Money-weight Scale Company to recover possession of a slightly used cash register, valued at about $100, from Max Kendek would have faced the jury on Wednesday, but for the discontinuance of the case on December 11, 1910, by Attorney E. D. Brown, for the plaintiff.

Judgment of "non pro" has been entered against Alex Cohen, of the West Side, Connellsville, in M. J. Rohm's suit against him to recover $30.00 on an account for want of an affidavit of claim. Cohen brought the case in court as an appeal from the justice's decision in the matter.

HOTEL MAN HELD

On Charge of Allowing Intoxicated
Man to Wander Out of House.SOMERSET, Pa., Feb. 11.—(Special).—Otis Reichen, a hotel keeper of Hawthorn, has been held in jail in $1, 500 on a special charge issued at the instance of L. Ward Rhoads of Johnstown, who some time ago brought suit for damages against Reichen for $15,000 damages, alleging that Reichen
sold him, Rhoads, liquor at his hotel in Deswell, and after he became intoxicated allowed him to leave the hotel and wander on the railroad tracks, where he fell with his hands resting on the rails and a passing train severed both hands above the wrists.

School Board in Session.

The monthly meeting of the Lower Tyne township school board is being held this afternoon at the Dan-son National Bank building.GEO. PATTERSON CANDIDATE FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY.Brilliant Young Uniontown Attorney Is the Logical Candidate to Succeed Davis W. Henderson.George Patterson, the brilliant young lawyer whose conduct of the Commonwealth's case against Frank Smith for the murder of his father and brother-in-law elicited the admiration of the bar and community, recently announced his candidacy for District Attorney of Fayette county. He will submit this candidacy to the Republican voters of the county for decision at the June primaries, observing the same quiet and unassuming way he took cases, that he expects to win.For the past three years George Patterson has been the Assistant District Attorney. No one will bear greater testimony to the ability with which he has discharged the duties of his position than District Attorney
Davis W. Henderson. Last year Mr.
Henderson's serious illness was responsible for some of the heaviest criminal business in the history of the county falling on the shoulders of Mr.
Patterson. When Mr. Henderson recovered and got back to his office the first thing he did was to compliment
Mr. Patterson on the exceedingly able manner in which he discharged the duties of the office during that illness.This will be Mr. Patterson's second year for the office. He ran a nip and tuck race with Mr. Henderson in 1907. He was beaten by a mere 300 votes. Because of Mr. Henderson's previous experience as Assistant District Attorney, he was the logical candidate for the office. Mr. Patterson now enjoys the same advantage. In cases of doubt the custom of the voters of this county to advance assistants. For the decent manner in which Mr. Patterson conducted his campaign in 1907 Mr.
Henderson did the greatest thing by appointing him his assistant. Instead of disparaging the candidacy of his opponent, as many candidates are in the habit of doing, every question put to Mr. Patterson regarding the charges or qualifications of Mr. Henderson elicited a complimentary response. At that time Mr. Patterson asserted that and again that he would much rather be beaten than resort to any tactics not strictly honorable. And when it came to the election in the fall Patterson pulled off his coat for Henderson, accompanied him on his electioning trips and fought for the winner at the primaries as if he were fighting for himself.Mr. Patterson has been a member of the Fayette county bar for nearly seven years. His practice is of a general character and he has been highly successful. However, his expert knowledge of criminal law and procedure has won for him high distinction in the criminal courts. Without question he is the best equipped man available at present for the office of district attorney. Notwithstanding that he is the first assistant district attorney in the county to be murdered for the conduct of murder cases, he has tried six during his term and has secured favorable verdicts in the cases of four.Mr. Patterson acquitted himself with great brilliancy in the recent trial of Frank Smith for murder.
For the Commonwealth he tried the case single handed against half a dozen of the best criminal lawyers at the bar. He examined all of his own witnesses and cross-examined every witness produced by the defense. His conduct of that case disclosed a knowledge of mental therapeutics which not only astonished the local bar, but elicited much favorable comment from points far beyond the State.

The Smith case in nearly every respect was a parallel to the highly famous Thaw case, with the exception that in the Thaw case there was an apparent motive, the wrongs suffered by Thaw's young wife, while any element of this kind was lacking in the Smith case. However, the jury in the Smith case gave the defendant the benefit of the doubt and declared him innocent. Patterson's masterful cross-examination and the exceedingly able address he made to the jury are matters to which the files of the newspapers of the county, without exception, will bear ample testimony.George Patterson is an optimist.

Without that quality no man suffering the hardships he did could fight his way to the front. Yet he is an unassuming, middle-aged, even tempered and quiet-spoken individual, who confines himself to facts and never raises before a jury. He was born in Connellsville November 29, 1876, and is still a very young man considering his long experience. He is only a little over 31. With his parents, Thomas and Ella Patterson, he moved to Lemont in 1881. His father was a B.
& O. machanic.Keep in Touch With Our Final Coat Sale
$1.00 Less Each Day.On Wednesday, February 8th, begins the sale that will sell every Coat in the house. The wind-up of the season finds us with quite a stock of Women's and Children's Coats, that, according to this store's custom, must be closed out in order to begin the next season with everything new. To do this we have divided them into three different lots to start at $5.00, $10.00 and $20.00 each and then reduced in price $1
each day until every garment is sold. To make this sale of special interest from the start, each lot contains coats to sell at cost and less than cost. This is not a new idea with us for many will remember the great bargains they received at a sale similar to this last spring at which every coat and suit in the house was closed out regardless of cost. Glance at the fol-

Home Course In Poultry Keeping

I.—What Branch of the Poultry Business.

By MILO M. HASTINGS,
Formerly Poultryman at Kansas Experiment Station, Commercial Poultry Expert of the United States Department of Agriculture, Author of "The Dollar Hen."

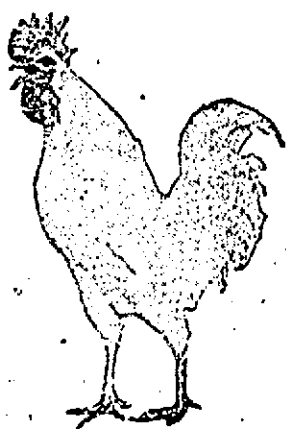

(Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.)

POUULTY keeping more profitable than any other industry is engaged in for the double purpose of profit and pleasure. The farmer is rarely conscious of the fact that he is keeping poultry for pleasure, yet the fact without its customary flock of chickens would seem rather dreary, and the farmer's table without its customary supply of fresh eggs and fried chicken would be sadly deficient.

The object of pleasure enters more largely in the case of those who keep poultry in towns and villages. Not only does the flock of chickens give the village or suburban resident an occupation which is a pleasure in itself, but the poultryman can supply his table with a quality of food he cannot purchase in the market, but in the majority of cases villagers as well as many farmers find great pleasure in poultry breeding and exhibition as a hobby. The extent to which this phase of poultry keeping has been developed is readily seen from the multitude of poultry shows held throughout the country during the fall and winter months.

In attempting the study of a series of lessons in poultry keeping the poultryman or would be poultryman should form a clear conception in his mind of the relation in his own case of these various objects or ends for which the poultry business is commonly engaged in.

The Farm Flock.
The prime object for which the farmer keeps chickens is for his own table, and in order that he may have sufficient poultry products to supply his table throughout the year there will be necessity for at certain seasons a surplus for the market; hence the farmer who starts out to furnish his own table soon finds himself in the market end of the poultry business, and as a flock of 100 hens requires but little more labor in their care than twenty-five or thirty we find that the most prosperous and intelligent farmers keep a flock of about the former size.

Now, if the farmer's quota of hens goes much beyond this figure it will become necessary to divide the flock into smaller units and go to other troubles that are rather less welcome for the general farmer who considers poultry as a part of his regular farm operations. For the farmer who looks at it in this way simplicity in methods is advisable, for a general utility flock of this size will not yield a sufficiently large income to warrant more expensive methods of housing and care that would be perfectly proper in the case of a breeder of fancy fowls or a poultry farmer who kept several hundred hens.

The form is an excellent place for breeding standard bred poultry, and I have nothing but encouragement for the farmer who is interested in the show bird end of it. In this case he will require separate houses and yards as a building wherein he may keep single fowls during the show season and will in general find it necessary to put more time and expense on his poultry work if he expects to make a success of the breeding stock part of the business.

The Village Poultryman.
The village I would by all means advise to keep standard bred poultry and to take an interest in poultry breeding and poultry shows. From the nature of his surroundings he is obliged to keep his fowls yarded, and as the time he spends with his chickens is recreation, the more individual care which he will find it desirable to give fancy fowls, will not be grudged.

The production of poultry products to sell at ordinary market prices is always profitable for the farmer, for on the free range plan of his poultry keeping labor and food costs are both much reduced. Poultry keeping can also be made profitable when engaged in on a large scale, in which case, because of the large number of chickens to be attended to, the labor can be reduced to a systematic basis and will require but very little time per fowl.

MILO M. HASTINGS

On some of the well known egg farms one man feeds and cares for from 2,000 to 3,000 hens.

The village poultry plant where but a few dozen fowls are kept must necessarily have a larger feed-bill than the farmer and a higher labor expense per fowl than either farm or commercial poultry plant. For these reasons the villager who hires a man to take care of his poultry or expects it to earn wages for his own time is, if the product is sold at ordinary market rates, very likely to be disappointed. Now, if the villager takes up fancy poultry breeding and devotes his time to the art he has excellent chances of becoming well known as a breeder and making a good profit in the business. Meanwhile he should have enough love for his work so that he will be content to get back a little more than his actual money outlay and give his time for the pleasure of the work and the hopes of profits later on.

Poultry Farming as a Business.
I presume there will be some who read this course in poultry keeping who will be desirous of engaging in poultry production as a business. To those I would say that after many years of precarious existence poultry farming is now established as a sound branch of agriculture. Although there is no greater money to be made from poultry than from many other branches of modern scientific agriculture, there is something about the business that has induced large numbers of ignorant people to invest their savings in poultry ventures, hopelessly burying their money in expensively equipped plants designed by themselves or others equally ignorant of the business.

As is generally recognized, the only sensible plan for one who proposes to go into poultry keeping as a business is to begin in a small way, either in a village or on a farm, and keep poultry for a few years in conjunction with some other occupation. If he is successful in this, it will then be time to consider the keeping of poultry on a more elaborate scale. A few general remarks on commercial poultry farming I will append, however, as a matter of general interest.

The branch of poultry keeping that has proved most universally successful in a large way is egg farming. The broiler farms have almost invariably been failures, and the principle is now pretty thoroughly recognized that the broiler should be considered as a by-product of the egg business, just as skim milk is a by-product of the production of butter. Half or more of all chicks hatched will be cockerels and must be disposed of as broilers, for with Leghorns and other egg types of fowls male birds are worthless if allowed to mature. This large surplus of broilers from egg farms and from the general farm of the country is sufficient to meet the demand and to reduce the price to a point which will permit of little profit to the man who produces broilers exclusively.

The idea of the broiler business as attempted fifteen or twenty years ago was to produce chickens during the winter and early spring season by the use of incubators and brooders and secure fancy prices at the season of the year when no young stock was coming from the general farm. This business, which did not prove successful then, would be even more impractical now, as our modern methods of cold storage have become so efficient that it is entirely practical to freeze up a supply of inexpensive summer broilers and to meet the demand the following winter, and early spring with this cheaply preserved stock.

Another plan, if poultry production which is successfully prosecuted in limited localities is the growing of roasters.

In this style of poultry flesh production heavier breeds of slowly maturing fowls are used, and both sexes are allowed to reach maturity and are then marketed as fancy stock. The possible profits of the production of extra fancy market fowls in this manner have been limited, however, by the custom of fattening or crate feeding farm grown cockerels as now engaged in by poultry packers and by many farmers as well. Crate or milk fed chickens offer a prime quality of young poultry flesh, and hence, except for a few markets where roasters from certain communities already have a reputation, it would hardly be advisable to take up this line of poultry production. A recent development in specialized poultry work is the public hatchery. This business is usually conducted in conjunction with large poultry plants. The shipping of day old chicks long distances by rail is now quite a fact and has probably been overdone, but the abuse of the public hatchery in the selling of chicks from eggs of uncertain origin. Hatcheries should not undertake public hatching.

Duty.
Duty stands for the most part close at hand, unobscured, simple, immediate. If any man has the will to hear his voice, to him is able willing to be reduced to a systematic basis and will require but very little time per fowl.

REBEL GENERAL OROZCO SHIELDS TROOPS IN IMPREGNABLE NATURAL FORTRESS.

EL PASO, Feb. 11.—General Orozco, leader of the insurrectionists, has thrown real fear into the hearts of the Mexican government troops at Juarez. He is considered particularly dangerous because of the number of horses he has obtained for his men in some mysterious manner. He is known to have at least 1,500 horses, which will make his troops very effective in his intended onslaught on the city. Orozco's military tactics, at first criticized by friends of the rebel cause, are now shown to have been judicious because of the approach of reinforcements for him. Juarez is pressed a little closer by the insurrectionists than at any previous time. Although at least 300 men, according to careful estimates of observers, have stopped about ten miles southeast of the city on the banks of the Rio Grande river, where they monitor the city.

United States troops have drawn a very tight cordon along the Rio Grande and have captured many of the insurrectionists who were wandering into El Paso for food or back to camp with it. The site of Orozco's camp in the mountains near Juarez is an impregnable fortress. It occupies a basin, or arroyo, nearly 1,000 feet above the surface of the Rio Grande and is approachable only on narrow trails or through rocky passes. On all sides but one the sharp peaks of the volcanic hills tower like the pinnacles of churches. From the apex of the hills a few hundred feet above the camp a splendid view is afforded of the entire plain toward Juarez. The sentinels sit among the rocks here and search the distant mesas for bands of moving men. The white walls of Juarez are clearly discernible two miles away as the crow flies. An advance of the enemy without immediate discovery would be impossible.

QUININE DOESN'T CURE BAD COLDS.

How to Really Break a Severe Cold and End All Grippe Misery in Just a Few Hours.

You will distinctly feel your cold breaking and all the Grippe symptoms leaving after taking the very first dose.

It is a positive fact that Pope's Cold Compound, taken every two hours, until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe, and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

It promptly relieves the most miserable morning pains, headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pope's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25 cent package of Pope's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

WHAT IS VINOL?

It Represents Twenty Years' Work of Two Emile Chemists.

After twenty years of study two eminent French chemists discovered a method by which the alkaloids or medicinal elements of the cod liver oil might be separated from the useless oil or grease, retaining all the good of cod liver oil and dispensing with the bad, as the oil has no medicinal value. These medicinal elements blended with tonic iron and a mild medicinal wine—make Vinol.

Vinol is not a secret medicine, as its ingredients are printed on every bottle, and in all cases where the healing, strengthening influence of cod liver oil is needed, Vinol will give better results, for it contains all the curative medicinal properties of cod liver oil, but without the oil, and it is easily assimilated and acceptable to the weakest stomach.

For all run-down, weakened conditions, and to cure chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, Vinol is successful. We sell it always with the understanding that if it does not do all we claim for it, we will refund the money paid us for it. Graham & Company, Druggists, Connelleville, Pa.
